Lake Sunapee Champion Sports

This is the first naming of the Lake Sunapee Champion’s “Dream Dozen” athletes for the recently completed winter sports season.

In my years at the Argus-Champion, we in the sports department, named an All-Argus team after every sports season picking male and female athletes of the season as well as 10-20 males and females to round out the all-star squad.

We’ll do it a little bit differently here at the Lake Sunapee Champion. Instead of singling out just one male and one female, we’ll pick one athlete from each school regardless of gender. We’ll also name 12 males and 12 females to complete the area’s “Dream Dozen” from Kearsarge, Newport, Stevens and Sunapee.

In naming this first edition, I consulted with all professionals who either covered or took photographs for me during the season. The final selections are based on the information I gathered myself or from those who worked for me this past winter.

The criteria for the selections were also a result of individual athletic performance, team success, sportsmanship and being a good teammate.

Those four athletes are Sam Young from Kearsarge, Samantha Hemingway from Newport, Travis Drawing from Stevens and Stephanie Larpenster from Sunapee.

Young was the Kearsarge boys basketball team's leading scorer and a feared three-point shooter throughout Class I. Young recently tried out and earned a spot on New Hampshire's Rotary squad which will play in this summer's Twin State Classic against Vermont.

Hemingway became Newport's latest 1,000 point scorer leading the Tigers to the Class M tournament for a fourth straight season. She was a first team Class M all-state player this year.

Drawing was a second team Class I all-state player helping guide the Stevens Cardinals boys basketball team to its best season in nearly 20 years. His Class M semifinal performance of 12 points, 17 rebounds, six assists and five steals in an overtime loss to Prospect Mountain will be talked about for years to come in Claremont.

Larpenster completed her stellar 1,000 point scoring career at Sunapee by being named the Class S player of the year. She led the Lakers to an undefeated regular season during her senior year.

Here, in no particular order, are the remaining members of the Lake Sunapee Champion's 2009 Winter Season Dream Dozen. Congratulations.

LSC Boys 2009 Winter Dream Dozen

Kaleb Tarczewski, Stevens Basketball:

The 6-foot-10 center was nearly unstoppable in the paint down the stretch.

Derrike Palmer, Stevens Track: Palmer finished an impressive second at the indoor Class I-M-S meet in the shot put.

Dean Gioldassis, Sunapee Basketball: Gioldassis went a long way toward carrying the Lakers to the Class S quarterfinals for the first time in several years.

Erik Skarin, Sunapee Skiing: Made a return to skiing during his junior season and immediately took a spot in the top 10.

Jesse Shull, Newport Wrestling: Has become Newport's most consistent wrestler setting up what should be a super senior season.

Zach Hays, Newport Wrestling: Hays is an example of what hard work, dedication to your sport and understanding your sport can make you keep getting better.

Nik Hauck, Kearsarge Skiing: Hauck was instrumental in helping the Cougars win the boys state title.

LSC Girls 2009 Winter Dream Dozen

Allison Tenney, Sunapee Basketball: The thinking man's point guard. Rarely makes a bad pass or a bad decision on the court.

Megan Cahill, Sunapee Basketball: Has developed into one of the best rebounders and defenders in Class S.

Megan Deschaine, Stevens Swimming: Had a fantastic season for the Cardinals and is poised to continue to get better.

Mandy Mathiesen, Sunapee Skiing: Sunapee's most consistent skier this past season.

Alex Gaines, Kearsarge Basketball: Has become the heart and soul of the Cougars.

Andrea Iacopino, Kearsarge Skiing: Was the only Cougar female to qualify for the Eastern High School Championships.

N.H. Fish and Game News

Spring gobbler season looks good for NH hunters

CONCORD, N.H. - New

Hampshire's turkey hunters can expect a productive spring gobbler season, according to New Hampshire Fish and Game Department turkey biologist Ted Walski. The spring season opens May 3, and runs through May 31 statewide. The N.H. Youth Hunt Weekend precedes the season, taking place on April 25-26 (Saturday and Sunday).

"Hopefully, turkey hunters were out sometime during March checking on the whereabouts of turkey flocks before snowcover disappeared and the flocks began to break out of their wintering sites and disperse across the landscape," said Walski.

Walski recapped the past winter's impact on the state's turkey population: Turkeys did well this past winter in most of the state. The ice storm during the middle of December and the thawing days in late December created some crust, allowing turkeys to walk more easily on the snow. While January was cold, the month of February had many "thawing days," which created bare ground sites on south and southwest slopes. Turkeys fed on acorns during early and late winter, and made good use of dried crabapples and apples on trees from last fall's bumper apple crop. An Internet Wild Turkey Winter Flock Survey in New Hampshire this year produced 1,400 flock reports! The majority of these flocks visited bird feeders for sunflower seeds and cracked corn during the deep snow periods.

Turkeys have been displaying and gobbling this year since early February, Walski reported. Even some grouse were seen displaying in mid-February.

By Feb. 20, turkey flocks and deer groups were venturing from their winter ranges for "walk-about." Some turkey breeding was observed by the middle of March, which means there may be some early hatching during the second half of May.

During the spring 2008 gobbler season, N.H. hunters harvested 4,107 turkeys.

"I would 'guesstimate' the spring 2009 harvest will be in the same range, if not better," said Walski. "My travels through the fall and winter months seemed to indicate good numbers of adult toms with long beards. Last year's season harvest and this winter flock survey results suggest that turkey populations in the eastern half of the state are increasing, and I predict an increase in the May 2009 harvest from eastern wildlife management units."

Since the end of March, turkeys have begun gobbling early in the mornings between 6:00 and 6:15 a.m.

"If you can make the time, do some early morning gobbling routes," recommends Walski. "Start approximately one-half hour before daybreak. Stop at one-half to one mile intervals along a 5- to 10-mile route in the region you intend to hunt; get out of the vehicle and listen for gobbling turkeys and drumming grouse for four minutes at each stop."

N.H. Fish and Game Department regional biologists each survey several 10-mile routes each spring between April 15 and May 10 to listen for turkey and grouse.

Don't forget - the purchase of your spring N.H. turkey license also allows you to participate in the fall turkey hunt. Licenses are available online at www.huntnh.com or from any license agent. Consider taking a young person out during the Youth Hunt Weekend; remember that youth hunters do need to have a valid turkey license. Have an interesting turkey hunt and be sure to observe all the other things in the spring woods!

If you're new to turkey hunting or you've been thinking about giving it a try, come to a free turkey hunting seminar for beginners, "Introduction to Turkey Hunting," on Wednesday, April 22, 2009, at 7 p.m. at N.H. Fish and Game headquarters in Concord, N.H. The session features N.H. (and Maine) Hunting Guide Dave Smith and Bill Devon, N.H. State Chapter President of the National Wild Turkey Federation and a Pro Staff member of Quaker Boy Game Calls. Pre-registration required; call 603-271-6355.

All hunters should keep in mind some key safety guidelines for turkey hunting: Always positively identify your target. Never assume that calls and movement indicate the presence of a turkey - hunters commonly imitate turkey calls and use decoys in order to locate and/or attract turkeys! Never stalk a turkey; you could be mistaken for game - rather than stalking, scout out a good spot, call and wait for the turkeys to come to you. Be seen! Turkey hunters should always wear a blaze orange hat or vest as they enter and leave the area they are hunting. Tying blaze-orange survey tape around a decoy/calling location can alert other hunters to your presence and won't scare the birds. Avoid clothes with the colors red, white and blue and black, as these are the colors of the male turkey.
